LEGAL AID CAMP AT JINDOLI

It has been a long time since independence, more than 60 years now, but it seems that the problems of the poor and the lower income groups either in urban areas or the villages would not come to end in coming years but on the contrary they would rise. Even after enactment of so many social welfare legislations and policies framed by the government the condition of the villages remain pathetic as everything remains on paper and nothing is implemented. Due to lack of knowledge among poor people about the rights guaranteed to them and the procedure to avail those rights, they remain deprived of services which are either freely available or the facilities that play an important role in their life. Moreover, the administrative bodies have an indifferent approach towards these people and inspite of helping the people in need they try to take advantage of their situation and exploit them.

So, the Helping Hands Group & District Legal Service Authority, Alwar has organized a legal aid camp on 9th July 2013 in Jindoli Village, Mundawar of Alwar district with the motive to spread awareness among the villagers about their legal rights and government policies and facilities available to them. The legal aid camp made the people of Jindoli village aware about the rights guaranteed to farmers, women, children, senior citizens under various enactments such as Right to Education Act, Right to Information Act, Consumer Protection Act, Domestic Violence Act and similar legislations.

A special Session of Learned Judge Mrs. Rita Tejpal (CJM, Alwar District) also motivated the villagers, especially women to press for their demands and not to get suppressed and to take appropriate action against the wrongdoers by unifying. The end of the session witnessed a problem solving session by Judge Mrs. Rita Tejpal in which many people got to keep their atrocities in front of the judge and in turn guided by her.

Jindoli village comprises of about almost 700 houses with a good amount of population residing out of which 300-350 people attended the camp and shared their problems. The main problems that we got to know were: non availability of BPL cards to the people due to indifferent approach of Panchayat members in helping them, non availability of electricity connection and meter due to misconduct of electricity department and domestic violence with women.

After witnessing all these problems we came to the conclusion that the people in the village lack knowledge about the procedures of availing services and the administration inspite of helping them in turn tries to ignore and exploit these people. The people of the village are living in adverse circumstances and no one wants to understand the value of the benefit they would get from the valuable services that are granted by social welfare legislations.
